

Vincent Grillo

Vincent Grillo, Co-President of Cryofab, Inc, is passionate about the future of the Cryogenic industry. A second generation family business, Cryofab has grown from a small fabricating shop to major cryogenic manufacturer that is respected worldwide. With more than 39 years of industry experience, Vincent is well-known for his ability to identify opportunities, leverage relationships and combine creative thinking, cutting edge technology and engineering expertise to meet customer expectations. He is proud to be a member and Board of Director of the Cryogenic Society of America. Vincent is a past Board of Director for the CEC/ICMC and found the experience rewarding and fulfilling. “I look forward to the opportunity of once again collaborating with colleagues to accomplish the objectives and mission of the organization”.